Art Unit: 2816

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 2, line 4, "In" should be deleted. On page 6, line 19, --a-- should be inserted at the beginning of the line. On page 8, line 7, --with-- should be inserted after "equipped", and on line 9, "wherein" is misspelled. On page 10, line 22, "if" should be changed to --of--. On page 14, line 21, delete the word "where". On page 15, line 17, "electrically" should be changed to --electrical--.

Appropriate correction is required.

2. Claims 7 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 7, it cannot be determined if the "different resistance values" recited on line 17 means that the "m resistors" have values different from each other, or that there values are different those of the "n resistors" recited on line 12. The same problem exists in claim 19 regarding the recitation of the "p resistors".

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by any one of Namiki et al, Chevallier and Misawa et al.

Each of these references clearly teaches a temperature sensor circuit having a comparator, at least four serially coupled resistors and a switching circuit for selectively bypassing the resistors. Note Fig. 4 of Namiki et al; Fig. 5 of Chevallier and Fig. 12 of Misawa et al.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 2816

Claims 2-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over any one of Namiki et al, Chevallier and Misawa et al.

The various limitations recited in these claims would have been obvious to any person having ordinary skill in the art because they are all old and well-known features of resistor dividers and trimming circuits (e.g., setting the different resistor values to be equal to multiples of the lowest value resistor). Also, the use of a test signal during a calibration period is also old and well-known (official notice being taken) and similarly does not define patentably over the above-noted references.

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Kenneth B. Wells whose telephone number is (571)272-1757. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday through Friday from 8:30am to 5:00pm.
